Report of the Grievance Committee for 2008-2009

Two cases were presented to the Grievance Committee for consideration during the academic year.

Case #1:

A grievance was filed by an undergraduate student who received a C- for a course in Fall, 2008 that would require her to re-take it. The panel found that the instructor graded the student's materials appropriately, based on knowledge available at the time.

Case #2:

A grievance was filed by a graduate student who was advised that some of his/her work was not of the highest quality and received a letter from her instructors suggesting that she engage in some remediation activities. At the time of the request, the student was leaving campus until Fall, 2009 and a panel could not be convened, subsequently the student stated in an email that she/he will take the instructors' recommendations and work on the remediation activities and perhaps revisit the matter then.

Respectfully submitted,
