New Course Proposal

J645: Dialogue and Difference: Ethics, Religion, and Democracy in Education 3 hrs BL
 Educational implications of pervasive moral and ethical disagreements in democratic societies. This course will be an option within the major field of studies for doctoral students in Curriculum Studies, and will also be available as a minor course or elective for other students in the School of Education. The course has been offered as a special topics course on 5 occasions and has typically had full enrollment. It addresses an important area with Curriculum Studies and education generally, and the content is not systematically covered in any other seminars.

Course Change Proposal

Q610: Developing As Teacher Educators for Science or Mathematics 3 hrs BL

Seminar on concepts, issues, and research-based practices associated with learning to teach elementary preservice teachers how to teach science and/or mathematics to children. This new course was developed to meet the needs of doctoral students in the science and mathematics education programs. The previous number course listed as Q610 was not longer being used, so this new title and course structure will simply replace the previous course content.
