

Students in Online Programs Taking Courses on Campus

Students in online programs are allowed to take on campus courses. However, students doing this can be subject to not only higher tuition rates but also additional on campus fees. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Rationale: This question has come up several times lately so we thought a clear policy statement would be helpful. We also wanted students to be aware that taking a course on campus can lead to much higher tuition and fees.
